

---

To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by dailyherald - 2007/08/28 18:50

---

Gary Macomber and others with quick answers to the immigration problems should disclose how many of the supposed available American white youth they are employing. Everywhere I look the grunt jobs are being filled by Latinos.

Read more...

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Wilbur McSnilber - 2007/08/29 08:29

---

Another fool that doesn't understand basic economic principles.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by The Keeper - 2007/08/29 09:19

---

e have a group seeking an education so they can get paid for using their heads, a group that already holds those jobs, the lazy do-nothings looking for someone else to pay their way, the few Caucasians who are willing to work something other than a high-paying job and the group from south of the border who are willing to do the jobs no one else will.

I think I saw that movie!

<http://inlinethumb17.webshots.com/11728/2358823770101688296S600x600Q85.jpg>

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Phantom Cat - 2007/08/29 09:54

---

The last time I checked the U.S. had a diversity of skin colors (not just white and brown). Also, I don't believe whites are born lazy. Yes, many have grown up on the dole and believe they are entitled (thanks to liberals). However, latinos will (if they haven't already) figure out the dole system. That is why so many of their youths roam around getting into trouble, having babies out of wedlock, and believing they are too entitled.

I say: Cut off the welfare to ALL but the truly disabled! Then, millions of current welfare loafers will be looking to work. This will improve the lives of these people and our society as a whole. It's time to get back to basics. Among the basics are the rule of law and the law of work. Enough said!

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Russ - 2007/08/29 11:36

---

A.V., I will make the same offer to you that I have made to everyone else.

Give me 4 hours, letting me set the wage to be paid, and I will find someone to fill the job that you think cannot be filled because Americans won't take the job you have in mind. Remember, I get to set the wage to be paid.

I will fill that job with an American citizen. They will wind up being paid a fair and competitive wage.

I can promise you that, because I, unlike you, understand that this country operates within a supply and demand environment and that if one is willing to deal with the competition side of the equation instead of cheat, they can get someone to fill the job. Those who want to underpay, will of course, complain that they have to pay more AND that it's cheaper to hire an illegal alien to work for a non-competitive wage BECAUSE they, unlike an American citizen, don't have any recourse when they discover that they are being paid less than the fair market wage requires to keep the employee or that the employer is pocketing the taxes required to be honest.

---

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Commie_Pinko - 2007/08/29 11:59

---

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 12:33

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 12:36

---

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

Same here. But it's my Chile Verde I need to work on. :)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 12:46

---

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

---

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

Same here. But it's my Chile Verde I need to work on. :)

mmmmmmmmmm I love Chile Verde. I made Chicken in Mole Poblano last week. It was wonderful! ;)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 12:49

---

Betz wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

Same here. But it's my Chile Verde I need to work on. :)

mmmmmmmmmm I love Chile Verde. I made Chicken in Mole Poblano last week. It was wonderful! ;)

Mole? I let my mother-in-law handle that one. She's good! By the way, what's Chile Colorado? I haven't heard of it, or else I know it by another name.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 12:51

---

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

Same here. But it's my Chile Verde I need to work on. :)

mmmmmmmmmm I love Chile Verde. I made Chicken in Mole Poblano last week. It was wonderful! ;)

Mole? I let my mother-in-law handle that one. She's good! By the way, what's Chile Colorado? I haven't heard of it, or else I know it by another name.

A thick red sauce with beef chunks . . . similar Chile Verde.

---

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 12:58

Betz wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

Same here. But it's my Chile Verde I need to work on. :)

mmmmmmmmmm I love Chile Verde. I made Chicken in Mole Poblano last week. It was wonderful! ;)

Mole? I let my mother-in-law handle that one. She's good! By the way, what's Chile Colorado? I haven't heard of it, or else I know it by another name.

A thick red sauce with beef chunks . . . similar Chile Verde.

Mmmmmmmmmmm.. Sounds good!

---

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Commie_Pinko - 2007/08/29 13:02

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

---

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 13:21

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Commie_Pinko - 2007/08/29 13:49

---

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

---

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 13:52

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

There is a specific gene one has if they live in Philly or Coney Island? For that matter, who, besides rats, actually live in/at Coney Island? :D

I excised the foil dinner gene many years ago . . .

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:04

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

---

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by feifofob - 2007/08/29 14:07

---

People in Buffalo wish they could make wings as good as mine.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:09

---

feifofob wrote:

People in Buffalo wish they could make wings as good as mine.

Got a recipe? ;)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Commie_Pinko - 2007/08/29 14:10

---

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain culture's foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:18

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain culture's foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

That doesn't explain my husband and the Dutch oven. He's the only one on either side of the family who cooks with one. Special talent, I guess. ;)

Nor does it explain why the Spanish speaking Hispanics running Beto's come up with such crappy food.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by anonymous - 2007/08/29 14:19

---

KitKat wrote:

fefifob wrote:

People in Buffalo wish they could make wings as good as mine.

Got a recipe? ;)

---

It's all about Franks Red Hot Sauce.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by anonymous - 2007/08/29 14:20

---

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain culture's foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

---

JK!

You just about got bopped upside the head! :)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:27

---

JB, the Peter Petrelli to Dubya's Sylar. wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain cultures foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

No, not osmosis. More like -- injection! ;) ;D

**JB forces his mind out of the gutter.....****

Another bop.....

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Commie_Pinko - 2007/08/29 14:28

---

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

---

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

It's the recessive oven gene, your husband must have gringo/cowboy blood from somewhere in him in order to understand the highly technical nature of proper Dutch oven cooking.

P.S. Beto's ain't real Hispanic food, it's been Americanized by saboteurs, possibly even the Free Masons.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 14:33

---

KitKat wrote:

JB, the Peter Petrelli to Dubya's Sylar. wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain culture's foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

No, not osmosis. More like -- injection! ;) ;D

**JB forces his mind out of the gutter.....**

Another bop.....

Heh heh . . . JB got the bop that should have been for me! 8)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:35

---

Betz wrote:

---

KitKat wrote:

JB, the Peter Petrelli to Dubya's Sylar. wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Some may be able to do it by proxy but it is the exception not the rule. Basically you have to be married or have a close relative in order to even attempt replication of a certain cultures foods.

The husband or wife may be able to pass some ability to the other through a sort of osmosis.

No, not osmosis. More like -- injection! ;) ;D

**JB forces his mind out of the gutter.....****

Another bop.....

Heh heh . . . JB got the bop that should have been for me! 8)

LOL...

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by KitKat - 2007/08/29 14:37

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Betz wrote:

Ooga Booga wrote:

Don't forget that White people can't make a decent burrito either!

Where would our society be without those tasty burritos and enchiladas?

I make damn fine burritos and enchiladas! I do need to work on my Chile Colorado, though. :D

It's like Chinese food, only a real Chinese person can make it decent.

And...

Only a real Indian can make good Indian fry bread.

It's genetic...

But I challenge anyone to make a better burger than I can. :D

Genetic, huh?

---

Yes, Chinese people possess the wok gene which is absent in other cultures while only real Hispanics have the tortilla gene. This gives each culture a unique ability to cook their national foods which a certain je ne sais quoi that persons on the outside cannot hope to match.

When was the last time you had a Philly steak that matched the tastiness of a Philly steak in Philly or a true Coney Island dog outside of Coney Island? It's like people who live in the western US, we have the Dutch oven gene and the foil dinner gene.

Really? I don't know one thing about Dutch oven cooking, nor do I want to. I must be missing that gene. My Hispanic husband, on the other hand, does. He's extremely good at it too. I (a white) make better tortillas, Spanish rice, refried beans, beef enchiladas and a few other things than my Mexico born mother-in-law, and she will back me up on that. We all have a brain. We can learn. You don't have to be born in a particular area to be an expert on that area's foods. Heck, my mother-in-law won't even eat at Beto's which is owned and operated by Hispanics because she says the food is gross (it is!).

It's the recessive oven gene, your husband must have gringo/cowboy blood from somewhere in him in order to understand the highly technical nature of proper Dutch oven cooking.

P.S. Beto's ain't real Hispanic food, it's been Americanized by saboteurs, possibly even the Free Masons.

You may be right there. My husband does wear cowboy hats. He must have some kind of cowboy blood from somewhere..

Yeah, I knew Beto's is Americanized. But by the Free Masons? Didn't know that one. :)

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Betz - 2007/08/29 15:03

---

Ooga Booga wrote:

. . . the highly technical nature of proper Dutch oven cooking.

Have you noticed that every Dutch oven recipe starts out:

Add 2 cubes of butter

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by fefifob - 2007/08/29 15:10

---

JB, the Peter Petrelli to Dubya's Sylar. wrote:

KitKat wrote:

fefifob wrote:

People in Buffalo wish they could make wings as good as mine.

Got a recipe? ;)

It's all about Franks Red Hot Sauce.

---

And the butter. Don't forget the melted butter. About 1/3rd butter. I make them 4 lbs at a time & make a cup of sauce. As a garlic fiend, I'm obligated to add 4-6 cloves garlic.

Others add paprika & black pepper, but that just takes away from the nostril clearing effect of the Franks. I like to think of myself as a purist.

Coat wings in plastic bag. 7-8 minutes on the top shelf of the broiler per side. Cool, recoat with sauce and another 5 minutes per side.

Blue Cheese dip is a cup sour cream & a cup blue cheese crumbles with a couple dollops mayo, a splash of white wine vinegar and a couple cloves of minced & sauted garlic.

I haven't been there for a while, but Salt Lake Pizza & Pasta on 9th E & 21st South up in Salt Lake are the wings I tried to duplicate if you want someone else to do all the work.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by shutup - 2007/08/30 10:34

---

dailyherald wrote:

Gary Macomber and others with quick answers to the immigration problems should disclose how many of the supposed available American white youth they are employing. Everywhere I look the grunt jobs are being filled by Latinos.

Read more...

Unresearched racist garbage. If you take the same article and substitute some other race where "white" is used, it would be considered "hate speech".

Where's the census data that supports this welfare claim? Not here:

<http://www.infoplease.com/us/census/data/utah/economic.html>

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by thereitis - 2007/08/30 13:58

---

Russ wrote:

A.V., Give me 4 hours, letting me set the wage to be paid, and I will find someone to fill the job that you think cannot be filled because Americans won't take the job you have in mind. Remember, I get to set the wage to be paid.

I will fill that job with an American citizen. They will wind up being paid a fair and competitive wage.

I can promise you that, because I, unlike you, understand that this country operates within a supply and demand environment

Russ,

I unlike you understand that you cannot set the wage. The free market sets the wage. And yes, cheating will influence the free market set wage. The only problem with the mind set I see on wages is that we often think someone mowing lawns should be making $30k a year. In a marxist world, yes. In American, only when Big Macs and movies run $30 due to inflation.

You can't set the wage and call it free market.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

---

Posted by unaffiliated_person - 2007/08/31 15:52

The Keeper was right about the trucking industry.
<http://www.cnn.com/2007/WORLD/americas/08/29/mexico.trucks.ap/index.html>

Anyone who has driven south of the border knows how lax requirements are for vehicles. Now we get to have those same vehicles hauling goods here. The trucking industry on the US side is going to lose many jobs. I am sure Mexico imports more to the US than the US imports to Mexico. I see nothing that states the Mexican government is going to allow US trucks to haul goods down there.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by Russ - 2007/08/31 16:50

thereitis wrote:

Russ wrote:

A.V., Give me 4 hours, letting me set the wage to be paid, and I will find someone to fill the job that you think cannot be filled because Americans won't take the job you have in mind. Remember, I get to set the wage to be paid.

I will fill that job with an American citizen. They will wind up being paid a fair and competitive wage.

I can promise you that, because I, unlike you, understand that this country operates within a supply and demand environment.

Russ,

I unlike you understand that you cannot set the wage. The free market sets the wage. And yes, cheating will influence the free market set wage. The only problem with the mind set I see on wages is that we often think someone mowing lawns should be making $30k a year. In a marxist world, yes. In American, only when Big Macs and movies run $30 due to inflation.

You can't set the wage and call it free market.

I am not suggesting setting wages other than in a competitive way - which is the way the system should work.

If an employer has to pay more to get an employee, or to keep the employee, that IS the way the system is supposed to work. Employers of course, think it's great to have a few million foreigners, who come from countries where $5 a day is an excellent wage. They will live six families to a single dwelling home to get by, but what does the employer care? Not a bit! After all, his bottom line benefits from the foreigner working for less than what a citizen can finance his family with is just fine with them.

I am simply suggesting that dumping millions of foreigners upon OUR wage market skews the market price for labor in a negative way for practically every citizen worker. Of course, practically every employer loves the situation that excess illegal foreign labor causes.

Which is what this whole issue is all about.

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by The Keeper - 2007/08/31 18:08

unaffiliated_person wrote:

The Keeper was right about the trucking industry.
<http://www.cnn.com/2007/WORLD/americas/08/29/mexico.trucks.ap/index.html>

---

Anyone who has driven south of the border knows how lax requirements are for vehicles. Now we get to have those same vehicles hauling goods here. The trucking industry on the US side is going to lose many jobs. I am sure Mexico imports more to the US than the US imports to Mexico. I see nothing that states the Mexican government is going to allow US trucks to haul goods down there.

Jorge W. Boosh's Labor Day acknowledgment of the American worker!

However, the Mexican land armada has been delayed until at least next Thursday.

Allowing Mexican trucks delayed
Thursday would be earliest start date
<http://www.signonsandiego.com/news/mexico/20070831-9999-1b31mextruck.html>

=====

Re: To those with quick fixes for illegal immigration: Prove it

Posted by The Keeper - 2007/09/01 09:00

---

The commie loving federal 9th circuit says the Mexican truck armada can roll across America without delay!

Court refuses to halt plan to allow long-distance Mexican trucks
<http://www.signonsandiego.com/news/business/20070831-1812-bn31truck.html>

=====