
Leavitt's \"Early Morning Seminary\" Meetings

Posted by truthhurts - 2007/12/30 14:52

This post refers to the following Salt Lake Tribune article.

http://origin.sltrib.com/ci_7840906

Former Utah governor and current Cabinet secretary Mike Leavitt sought to infuse the lessons of his religion into his inaugural address and into state policy, conducting a series of "Early Morning Seminary" classes in which he and top advisers discussed how to incorporate "just and holy" Mormon principles into his governance, archival records show....

...Over several mornings in late 1996, the group delved into the Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, exploring the lessons from Mormon scripture and how they apply to modern government

Well, I guess we can see how important separating Church and State was on his list. Certainly not a surprise, by any stretch of the imagination. After all, this is Utah. :lol:

=====

Re:Leavitt's \"Early Morning Seminary\" Meetings

Posted by The Keeper - 2007/12/30 15:45

Must have been the part about Danites that gave Leavitt the brilliant idea to propose to the Western Governor's Conference a "Smart Chip" containing an individual's life history be built into the Utah Driver license. And later his secret "Data Mining" agreement with other states, which was discovered only after he packed his bags and headed to Washington DC.

Meanwhile, as prominent Mormons lead this country down the fascist path, "The Brethren" at Temple Square sit fat, dumb, and happy, counting their tithing and other corporate profits, occasionally stating "no 501(c)(3) comment!".

=====

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by thedadof8 - 2007/12/30 17:04

The Keeper wrote:

Must have been the part about Danites that gave Leavitt the brilliant idea to propose to the Western Governor's Conference a "Smart Chip" containing an individual's life history be built into the Utah Driver license. And later his secret "Data Mining" agreement with other states, which was discovered only after he packed his bags and headed to Washington DC.

Meanwhile, as prominent Mormons lead this country down the fascist path, "The Brethren" at Temple Square sit fat, dumb, and happy, counting their tithing and other corporate profits,

.....and looking to third world countries in an effort to educate their members not only in religious doctrine but also in trades and intellect. Also in donating to humanitarian efforts throughout the world. Hmmmm....those profits are put to good use.

=====

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by Dubss - 2007/12/30 22:04

The Keeper wrote:

Must have been the part about Danites that gave Leavitt the brilliant idea to propose to the Western Governor's Conference a "Smart Chip" containing an individual's life history be built into the Utah Driver license. And later his secret "Data Mining" agreement with other states, which was discovered only after he packed his bags and headed to Washington DC.

Meanwhile, as prominent Mormons lead this country down the fascist path, "The Brethren" at Temple Square sit fat, dumb, and happy, counting their tithing and other corporate profits, occasionally stating "no 501(c)(3) comment!".

you really need to get out of Utah.

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by ericmiami - 2007/12/30 22:34

Couple more negative hits on your karma, Dumbya, and you're off the forum. Sure gonna be sad to see you go. You've been the most amusing poster in a puerile way!

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by Uncle_Bud - 2007/12/30 23:26

Poor Dubs, don't seem to be to popular.

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by Dubss - 2007/12/31 00:01

Uncle_Bud wrote:

Poor Dubs, don't seem to be to popular.

"doesn't" seem to be popular dar dar.

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by Dubss - 2007/12/31 00:06

ericmiami wrote:

Couple more negative hits on your karma, Dumbya, and you're off the forum. Sure gonna be sad to see you go. You've been the most amusing poster in a puerile way!

How am I going to live without speaking with idjits like yourself. Course your going to go into withdrawls as a crack addict would from not being able to comment to me, what will you do with your life then? :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo:

Re:Leavitt's

Posted by Uncle_Bud - 2007/12/31 03:08

HAHAHAHAHAHA