
Winter Solstice Causes Big Change in DH Forums

Comments now powered by FIREBOARD hmmm...

I can change COLOURS, yes that would be colours with a U (apparently fireboard is software designed outside the US).
I can change text size verysmall small normal big verybig.

I can add urls <http://www.google.com/>
italics underline bold images too, quotes, lists...

Emoticons... :woohoo: :dry: :evil: :lol:

Don't see the "roll eyes" and "cheesy" smile. How ever will Dubss now communicate? Didn't The Herald take into consideration that without those he will be rendered mute?

I don't seem to like how I have to view the comments though. I need to use the threaded format in order to see what comments go where.

I mean, that makes it clearer than the old format, but it is much more slower, it seems. Oh well, maybe the format will grow on us all.

WaynesWorld,
Have you figured out how to view the oldest comments in the thread first?

Nevermind, I found the setting. If anyone else is looking for it, it's in your personal profile settings on the "Fireboard" tab. You can change between viewing the "oldest" or "latest" comments first as well as changing the thread style between "flat" or "threaded".

I don't like that real names are shown in the "Last Post" column sometimes. Has anyone else noticed that?

How do you which names displayed are the real deal or merely anti-stalking aliases, considering the Herald staff screws things up every time they do a hands-on adjustment?
