
Commission, sheriff at odds over money

This thread discusses the Content article: Commission, sheriff at odds over money

The county contracts with seven cities for patrol services, the largest being Eagle Mountain, and also provides dispatch services for various cities. The cost per 911 call is also disputed by the two sides. The commission would like to see an eventual charge of $23.25 per call while the sheriff holds that $15.50 is the actual reimbursement cost.

Sheriff Tracy is probably right about the lower costs, considering he requests National Guard assistance in a show of Martial Law for an alleged domestic disturbance report!

Ellertson and White are trying to rip off hard working people. They toate the whole "No new taxes" thing and then they try to unjustly stick the whole county burdon to these small towns. Stop the abuse! Vote Ellertson out this year!
