Provo's Tagging/Graffiti Problem

I'm just wondering when is provo going to wake up to their tagging/graffiti problem? The police are more worried about handing out parking tickets and responding to college pranks. Within the past 2-3 months I have seen new graffiti all over town, and in all neighborhoods. Most of this graffiti is gang related as well, reading 13 and written with blue spray paint. For those who aren't up on gangs, 13 represents the Mexican gang Sorenos whose color is blue and number is 13.

I'm originally from California from a town that experienced a large influx of Mexican Immigrants. And along with that influx, came mexican gangs. I can assure you that tagging leads to other things, and if this problem isn't cleaned up, there will be more and more gang activity in this area. You may laugh, and think "yea right, Provo?". But I promise, you will see more and more cases of first thefts and robberies, then domestic disturbances, then large scale fights, then stabbings and then ultimately shootings.

I wish that the daily herald, provo residents, and the provo police would take an active part in keeping this community safe and prevent future problems. I would like to see the Daily Herald do an article on this problem and face the issue at hand. Thanks

As doubt and despair overwhelmed Sarger's senses, he lost all faith not only in his mission, but also in the Titans' vision of an ordered universe. Eventually he came to believe that the concept of order itself was folly, and that chaos and depravity were the only absolutes within the dark, lonely universe. His fellow Titans tried to persuade him of his error and calm his raging emotions, but he disregarded their more optimistic beliefs as self-serving delusions. Storming from their ranks forever, Sarger set out to find his own place in the universe. Although the Pantheon was sorrowful at his departure, the Titans could never have predicted just how far their lost brother would go.

The Waking World and the Well of Eternity

Ten thousand years before the orcs and humans clashed in their First War, the world of Azeroth cradled only one massive continent, surrounded by the sea. That landmass, known as Kalimdor, was home to a number of disparate races and creatures, vying for survival amongst the savage elements of the waking world. At the dark continent's center was a mysterious lake of incandescent energies. The lake, which would later be called the Well of Eternity, was the true heart of the world's magic and natural power. Drawing its energies from the infinite Great Dark beyond the world, the Well acted as a mystical fount, sending its potent energies out across the world to nourish life in all its wondrous forms.

In time, a primitive tribe of nocturnal humanoids cautiously made their way to the edges of the mesmerizing enchanted lake. The feral, nomadic humanoids, drawn by the Well's strange energies, built crude homes upon its tranquil shores. Over time, the Well's cosmic power affected the tribe, making them strong, wise, and virtually immortal. The tribe adopted the name Kaldorei, which meant "children of the stars" in their native tongue. To celebrate their budding society, they constructed great structures and temples around the lake's periphery.
