
Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/25 12:11

Friday, 25 April 2008

Donny and Marie Osmond signed for Las Vegas Strip show

From Daily Herald news services

Donny and Marie Osmond signed for Las Vegas Strip show

LAS VEGAS (AP) -- Donny and Marie Osmond will perform in at the Flamingo Las Vegas hotel-casino on the Las Vegas Strip.

A hotel official said Friday that the brother-sister duo, who starred in the "Donny show in 1976, will play Tuesday-Saturday shows for 26 weeks spread over eight months at the Flamingo Showroom.

The 90-minute show, beginning Sept. 9, will be presented by Danny Gans and Chip Lightman of GansLight Entertainment. It is being billed as a greatest-hits multimedia spectacle on a custom stage with multiple video screens and a cast of dancers.

"My version of a variety show has been what Vegas has known thus far," said Gans, an impressionist and comedian who has long played in Las Vegas. "What we have now is a true variety show which conveys the real essence of America and the country's love of homegrown talent."

Tickets, $85, $99 and $115, go on sale Monday for the engagement, which marks a return to Las Vegas for Donny sical family, The Osmonds, shared the marquee at the old International hotel with Elvis Presley in the 1970s. The International is now the Las Vegas Hilton.

"Donny and Marie are timeless entertainers and cultural icons," said Don Marrandino, president of Flamingo Las Vegas. Financial terms of the deal were not disclosed.

The duo recently hosted the Miss USA pageant in Las Vegas, and are due to host "America's Favorite Mom," on NBC next month.

The Flamingo Showroom has been dark most of this month after entertainer Toni Braxton was hospitalized April 7 with chest pain.

Braxton's Las Vegas act, "Toni Braxton: Revealed," is in a two-year run that ends in August at the Flamingo. Braxton is due to resume her show May 6 after canceling several shows and taking a previously scheduled two-week break.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/25 12:11

All I've gotta say is...you've GOTTA love the heading on this article.:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo:

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by The Truth Typhoon - 2008/04/25 19:51

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by gaystaterefugee - 2008/04/26 09:19

I find it very fitting that a town originally founded by the LDS have its most noted "Ambassadors" produce the "Donnie and Marie Vegas Strip Show".

Wait a sec.... "Donnie and Marie Vegas Strip Show"?

Has it come to this? Gas prices and jet fuel costs have forced these two icons of visual and aural stimuli to detour to the lap dancing options that have forced so many of desperate ambition this option of ill repute in order to survive these times of coloric and petroleum distress??

I mean come on...have use seen Marie lately?

SHE'S A BONE! And Donald has been forced to show another belt hole to the aura that surrounds him.

But then again...Marie in a "Vegas Strip Show"??

HHMMMMM.....now-now-now.....perish the thought....
not my Marie. Say it aint so.;

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 13:05

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 13:34

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 13:43

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, i

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 13:51

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work is shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:04

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no ones business but there own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with Costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:07

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work is shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no ones business but there own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with Costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy. You didn't even read what I said.

As I said, I talk to one of the boys all the time. As a result, I know more of this than you do. LOL!

When you start honoring your Priesthood on this fourm, I will take what you say more seriously. Until then, I consider you worthless.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:10

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie are a good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no one's business but their own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy. You didn't even read what I said.

As I said, I talk to one of the boys all the time. As a result, I know more of this than you do. LOL!

When you start honoring your Priesthood on this forum, I will take what you say more seriously. Until then, I consider you worthless.

Yet, you still judge her and her "immodest" clothing, have you seen her wardrobe for the shows? I doubt they even have designed them yet, so your judging her without having a clue, much like you defend people here you don't have a clue what their real lives are like. What is it with you?

Marie's choices to wear or not wear her garments for a one or two hour show is her own, for her reasons, quit judging her stuffy.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:12

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no ones business but there own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with Costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy. You didn't even read what I said.

As I said, I talk to one of the boys all the time. As a result, I know more of this than you do. LOL!

When you start honoring your Priesthood on this fourm, I will take what you say more seriously. Until then, I consider you worthless.

Yet, you still judge her and her "immodest" clothing, have you seen her ward robe for the shows? I doubt they even have designed them yet, so your judging her without having a clue, much like you defend people here you don't have a clue what there real lives are like. What is it with you?

Marie's choices to wear or not wear her garments for a one or two hour show is her own, for her reasons, quit judging her stuffy.
LOL..

As I said, I've talked to a family memeber. I know how HE feels about this too.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:15

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no ones business but there own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with Costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy. You didn't even read what I said.

As I said, I talk to one of the boys all the time. As a result, I know more of this than you do. LOL!

When you start honoring your Priesthood on this fourm, I will take what you say more seriously. Until then, I consider you worthless.

Yet, you still judge her and her "immodest" clothing, have you seen her ward robe for the shows? I doubt they even have designed them yet, so your judging her without having a clue, much like you defend people here you don't have a clue what there real lives are like. What is it with you?

Marie's choices to wear or not wear her garments for a one or two hour show is her own, for her reasons, quit judging her stuffy.
LOL..

As I said, I've talked to a family memeber. I know how HE feels about this too.

Not really the point what a family member thinks about it, the POINT stuffy is it's a personal choice for an entertainer who has a show nightly and sweats and multiple costume changes to wear or not wear there garments, it SHOULD be a choice we say nothing about because we are not in that position to know what it's like to be in a show like that. It's her choice IS the POINT stuffy.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:18

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:19

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez. Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

It's a personal choice, as it said in Jaye's article, if you have a sport that requires it, as Steve Young and Many other Mormon athletes do, it's really no ones business but there own. Stop judging Marie when you don't even know if she's going to wear "immodest" clothes every night. It's her choice.

NBA player Shawn Bradley certainly didn't wear his garments every night play in the NBA. I would imagine a song and dance show with Costumes and all the sweating and clothes changes wouldn't be conducive to that either. Relax stuffy. You didn't even read what I said.

As I said, I talk to one of the boys all the time. As a result, I know more of this than you do. LOL!

When you start honoring your Priesthood on this fourm, I will take what you say more seriously. Until then, I consider you worthless.

Yet, you still judge her and her "immodest" clothing, have you seen her ward robe for the shows? I doubt they even have designed them yet, so your judging her without having a clue, much like you defend people here you don't have a clue what there real lives are like. What is it with you?

Marie's choices to wear or not wear her garments for a one or two hour show is her own, for her reasons, quit judging her stuffy. LOL..

As I said, I've talked to a family memeber. I know how HE feels about this too.

Not really the point what a family member thinks about it, the POINT stuffy is it's a personal choice for an entertainer who has a show nightly and sweats and multiple costume changes to wear or not wear there garments, it SHOULD be a choice we say nothing about because we are not in that position to know what it's like to be in a show like that. It's her choice IS the POINT stuffy. shrug Your opinion only.

You have no idea what the brother me, so I advise you to shut up.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:22

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:22

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Just can't stand to be wrong, can you?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:23

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:24

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

That's not in need of "spell check", dumbass. I simply left a word out.

You've often said that if I knew you in real life, I'd dig you. I assure you, in real life, I'd be aware of your obnoxious behavior on this forum and that is a complete turn off. No way, ever, could I "dig" you.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:27

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

Well, you're a complete azz on this forum, but it's ok cause no one can see you (in real life). What a damn hypocrite.

I'm not out there flaunting my half naked body for the world to see. That, dumbass, is the difference.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:28

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

That's not in need of "spell check", dumbass. I simply left a word out.

You've often said that if I knew you in real life, I'd dig you. I assure you, in real life, I'd be aware of your obnoxious behavior on this forum and that is a complete turn off. No way, ever, could I "dig" you.

Never know, never say never. :laugh: I think you would. :laugh:

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:31

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

That's not in need of "spell check", dumbass. I simply left a word out.

You've often said that if I knew you in real life, I'd dig you. I assure you, in real life, I'd be aware of your obnoxious behavior on this forum and that is a complete turn off. No way, ever, could I "dig" you.

Never know, never say never. :laugh: I think you would. :laugh:

I need to go throw up...

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:32

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

Well, you're a complete azz on this forum, but it's ok cause no one can see you (in real life). What a damn hypocrite.

I'm not out there flaunting my half naked body for the world to see. That, dumbass, is the difference.

Now Maries half naked? Wow, you are stuffier than I thought. Again, her choice, you have no place to judge her,

Funny, how a few posts ago you were quoting the talk that said if your hobby makes you take off your garments then maybe you need a new hobby, and using this to judge Marie, but now it comes out you take yours off for your hobby, what a damn hypocrite you are Kitkat, just stop, you look more foolish every post.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:38

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

Well, you're a complete azz on this forum, but it's ok cause no one can see you (in real life). What a damn hypocrite.

I'm not out there flaunting my half naked body for the world to see. That, dumbass, is the difference.

Now Maries half naked? Wow, you are stuffier than I thought. Again, her choice, you have no place to judge her,

Funny, how a few posts ago you were quoting the talk that said if your a hobby makes you take off your garments then maybe you need a new hobby, and using this to judge Marie, but now it comes out you take yours off for your hobby, what a damn hypocrite you are Kitkat, just stop, you more foolish every post.

I do it twice a month maybe, at most. I see you fail to get my point, as usual. I didn't say if the hobby requires you to remove your garments, then you need a new hobby. I SAID THAT IS THE ADVICE A YOUNG COUPLE GOT PRIOR TO THEIR TEMPLE MARRIAGE. We are also advised that if our job requires Sunday work, we should try and find a new job. You're stupid. Good bye.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:41

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

Well, you're a complete azz on this forum, but it's ok cause no one can see you (in real life). What a damn hypocrite.

I'm not out there flaunting my half naked body for the world to see. That, dumbass, is the difference.

Now Maries half naked? Wow, you are stuffier than I thought. Again, her choice, you have no place to judge her,

Funny, how a few posts ago you were quoting the talk that said if your a hobby makes you take off your garments then maybe you need a new hobby, and using this to judge Marie, but now it comes out you take yours off for your hobby, what a damn hypocrite you are Kitkat, just stop, you more foolish every post. I do it twice a month maybe, at most. I see you fail to get my point, as usual. I didn't say if the hobby requires you to remove your garments, then you need a new hobby. I SAID THAT IS THE ADVICE A YOUNG COUPLE GOT PRIOR TO THEIR TEMPLE MARRIAGE. We are also advised that if our job requires Sunday work, we should try and find a new job. You're stupid. Good bye.

We are not advised if our jobs requires us to work on sundays to get a new Job. :blink: If that were the case there would be no policemen, firemen, who were LDS, and we know that's not true. We are advised if we HAVE to work on Sundays because our job requires it then it is OK to do so, as we can still worship in our own way. That's what we have been advised dimwit.

Good bye, :laugh: You were making a fool of yourself here today. Better to leave. :woohoo:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:43

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using the article as your religious point that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/26 14:46

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using this as your religious point of that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:
Rich! You're talking about MY mindset.

BTW, my Bishop has admonished me about working in shorts/tank top. He's told me I shouldn't be doing it. If that's true, then it applies to Marie too.

As I've said, my Bishop lives two houses over, and he can see into my back yard.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/26 14:52

What I don't get is if you are doing it, then why judge Marie over it? :blink: Hypocrite

Thought you were leaving? :laugh:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Betz - 2008/04/26 17:00

Dubbs wrote:

Good bye, :laugh: You were making a fool of yourself here today. Better to leave. :woohoo:

You make a fool out of yourself everyday! :laugh: Today is definately no exception! Don't you have something productive to do? Like, play with your children?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by ericmiami - 2008/04/26 17:09

The real issue here, for Dumbya, is that he is so tittilated at the thought of seeing Donny in a brief costume, that he's probably already bought a Greyhound ticket to Vegas.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Blondie - 2008/04/26 20:16

ericmiami wrote:

The real issue here, for Dumbya, is that he is so tittilated at the thought of seeing Donny in a brief costume, that he's probably already bought a Greyhound ticket to Vegas.

Good one Eric..... laughing so very hard.....:woohoo: :woohoo:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Dubbs - 2008/04/27 09:54

ericmiami wrote:

The real issue here, for Dumbya, is that he is so tittilated at the thought of seeing Donny in a brief costume, that he's probably already bought a Greyhound ticket to Vegas.

Same apply's to you, except for the thought of seeing Donnie. :laugh:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:06

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Prostitution is the oldest profession in the world. Until such time as the populace continues to tolerate it...it will continue...or until such time as the Lord returns to reign.

Just what do you want Donny and Marie to do about it?

Religious demographics for Las Vegas indicate at least an 11% LDS population. And who's to say how many Mormons travel to, and through Las Vegas for business and recreation?

T.T....just why is it that you allow your hatred of all things Mormon to dominate your life?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:10

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie are a good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

I wonder how BYU cheer-leaders get past it once they've been married.

I do believe that the Church has granted certain dispensations for members who must wear certain 'uniforms' or costumes at work.

In the hottest part of summer...I don't don the Gees. Too hot.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/27 11:13

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The Truth Typhoon wrote:

Since Vegas is ground zero for all things the LDS church hates, this goes to show that in the end, it is money that counts, not principles or ethics or doing what is right.

You can spin it any way you want about how wholesome there show will be. And I have no reason to doubt it, but I promise you, not more than 1000 feet from their Flamingo Showroom a 14 year old from Montana will be turning tricks.

Count on it.

Oh relax, Vegas has family shows all the time, they are trying to gear parts of Vegas to the family environment in shows and entertainment. So Donny and Marie area good alternative to Vegas sin, I think it is a good fit. I see nothing wrong with it.

We will see. Marie was on Dancing with the Stars, remember? Did you see her outfit? It wasn't exactly what someone who has been thru the Temple should have been wearing.

Don't get me wrong, I love this family. I've known them from WAY back before fame hit them. I was a classmate of one of the older boys.

But still, once we've been to the Temple, the same rules apply to all of us.

I have no problem with someone wearing an outfit for a one night dance special as an entertainer. It's a personal choice that really you questioning is none of your business. You like to me stuffy. Geez.

Did you read the post Jaye put up that was about a couple getting marriage advice prior to a Temple Marriage? I suppose you didn't read it...

The person advising the couple told them that their garments should NOT be removed, not even for yard work, etc. It did make an exception for some sports. It went so far as to say if you had a hobby that required removal of your garments, to find a new hobby.

Apparently, you didn't get what I meant about Marie. If a 'gig' in Las Vegas is going to have her dressing immodestly every night, then she needs a new gig. This is in accordance with the advice the young couple got (above). Let's just say I know the family better than you do. I am still in touch all the time with one of the older boys. I even talk to him on the phone alot.

I'm stuffy? You wish. I disregarded the advice I got prior to my temple marriage. I garden and do yard work in shorts and a tank top. But, I'm not out in public in front of thousands of people flaunting my body. So stuff it!

I wonder how BYU cheer-leaders get past it once they've been married.

I do believe that the Church has granted certain dispensations for members who must wear certain 'uniforms' or costumes at work.

In the hottest part of summer...I don't don the Gees. Too hot.

LOL.. Just watch Dubs get on you for that after he's been defending Marie.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:15

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

So...in YOUR opinion...if KitKat doesn't wear her garments while gardening in the privacy of her own backyard...she is going against Church teachings.

But if MARIE doesn't wear them on stage, in public, and in some cases...on television for the world to see...it's alright because it's her personal choice?

Oy-flippin-VEY!:blink: Talk about bloody contradictions.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:18

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

And what good would spell check do? Spell check only catches misspellings. It doesn't catch accidental omissions of words.

Heck...it wouldn't even do YOU any good when you keep misusing they're, there, and their.

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:24

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

The comical and typical hypocritical Kitkat part of her words today and judgeing of Marie is she herself takes her garments off and wears what could be considered immodest clothing to yard work, yet still judges Marie. Typical Kitkat. Sad really.

In the privacy of my back yard is a little different than being on stage in front of the whole world.

Ahh, so if no one can see your actions, then there OK? Got it. Not what the church teaches, but OK kitkat, just one of the many contradictions that is you.

Well, you're a complete azz on this forum, but it's ok cause no one can see you (in real life). What a damn hypocrite.

I'm not out there flaunting my half naked body for the world to see. That, dumbass, is the difference.

Now Maries half naked? Wow, you are stuffier than I thought. Again, her choice, you have no place to judge her,

Funny, how a few posts ago you were quoting the talk that said if your a hobby makes you take off your garments then maybe you need a new hobby, and using this to judge Marie, but now it comes out you take yours off for your hobby, what a damn hypocrite you are Kitkat, just stop, you more foolish every post.

I do it twice a month maybe, at most. I see you fail to get my point, as usual. I didn't say if the hobby requires you to remove your garments, then you need a new hobby. I SAID THAT IS THE ADVICE A YOUNG COUPLE GOT PRIOR TO THEIR TEMPLE MARRIAGE. We are also advised that if our job requires Sunday work, we should try and find a new job. You're stupid. Good bye.

We are not advised if our jobs requires us to work on sundays to get a new Job. :blink: If that were the case there would be no policemen, firemen, who were LDS, and we know that's not true. We are advised if we HAVE to work on Sundays because our job requires it then it is OK to do so, as we can still worship in our own way. That's what we have been advised dimwit.

Good bye, :laugh: You were making a fool of yourself here today. Better to leave. :woohoo:

So...can I assume that you have changed your mind since your earlier lectures about me working on Sundays and not attending Church...yet 'worshiping in my own way'?

Eh...Kent?:woohoo:

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/27 11:24

Jaye wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

And what good would spell check do? Spell check only catches misspellings. It doesn't catch accidental omissions of words.

Heck...it wouldn't even do YOU any good when you keep misusing they're, there, and their.

Notice the error he made while blabbering to me about a missed word (a rare mistake for me)?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:27

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using this as your religious point of that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:
Rich! You're talking about MY mindset.

BTW, my Bishop has admonished me about working in shorts/tank top. He's told me I shouldn't be doing it. If that's true, then it applies to Marie too.

As I've said, my Bishop lives two houses over, and he can see into my back yard.

I'd build a six foot fence in that case. Not his business what you do in your yard. Just what is he doing staring over into your backyard anyway?:woohoo:

Sounds like a bit of a busy-body IMPO.

Heaven forbid you ever put in a swimming pool...if you don't already have one.

Can you imagine what he'd have to say about you actually wearing a...gasp...swimsuit in your own damned backyard?:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:29

KitKat wrote:

Jaye wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

And what good would spell check do? Spell check only catches misspellings. It doesn't catch accidental omissions of words.

Heck...it wouldn't even do YOU any good when you keep misusing they're, there, and their.

Notice the error he made while blabbering to me about a missed word (a rare mistake for me)?

Why yes I did. Amusing...eh?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:31

Betz wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

Good bye, :laugh: You were making a fool of yourself here today. Better to leave. :woohoo:

You make a fool out of yourself everyday! :laugh: Today is definately no exception! Don't you have something productive to do? Like, play with your children?

Or help the classy wife get the kiddies ready to head to church for their weekly session of spiritual stuffing on SMUG?

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/27 11:35

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using this as your religious point of that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:
Rich! You're talking about MY mindset.

BTW, my Bishop has admonished me about working in shorts/tank top. He's told me I shouldn't be doing it. If that's true, then it applies to Marie too.

As I've said, my Bishop lives two houses over, and he can see into my back yard.

I'd build a six foot fence in that case. Not his business what you do in your yard. Just what is he doing staring over into your backyard anyway?:woohoo:

Sounds like a bit of a busy-body IMPO.

Heaven forbid you ever put in a swimming pool...if you don't already have one.

Can you imagine what he'd have to say about you actually wearing a...gasp...swimsuit in your own damned backyard?:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P

LOL.. I know! I do have a kiddie pool back there in the summer, maybe about 3 feet or so deep. And I get in there (shorts/tank) with the grandkiddies. Bishop hasn't mentioned that yet.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/27 11:37

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Jaye wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

"what the brother me" ??

I advice you to spell check, then kiss my posterior and relax on Marie, and get some of the stuffiness out. Then shut up yourself.

And what good would spell check do? Spell check only catches misspellings. It doesn't catch accidental omissions of words.

Heck...it wouldn't even do YOU any good when you keep misusing they're, there, and their.

Notice the error he made while blabbering to me about a missed word (a rare mistake for me)?

Why yes I did. Amusing...eh?

Very much so. I intentionally didn't say what's wrong with it. We'll let Dubs scratch his head for a bit.

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by Jaye - 2008/04/27 11:38

KitKat wrote:

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using this as your religious point of that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:
Rich! You're talking about MY mindset.

BTW, my Bishop has admonished me about working in shorts/tank top. He's told me I shouldn't be doing it. If that's true, then it applies to Marie too.

As I've said, my Bishop lives two houses over, and he can see into my back yard.

I'd build a six foot fence in that case. Not his business what you do in your yard. Just what is he doing staring over into your backyard anyway?:woohoo:

Sounds like a bit of a busy-body IMPO.

Heaven forbid you ever put in a swimming pool...if you don't already have one.

Can you imagine what he'd have to say about you actually wearing a...gasp...swimsuit in your own damned backyard?:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P

LOL.. I know! I do have a kiddie pool back there in the summer, maybe about 3 feet or so deep. And I get in there (shorts/tank) with the grandkiddies. Bishop hasn't mentioned that yet.

Give him time...if the sight of you in dry shorts and tank gave him conniptions...just think about what the sight of you in wet shorts and tank will do.:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P

=====

Re:Donny & Marie sign for Vegas Strip Show.

Posted by KitKat - 2008/04/27 11:46

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Jaye wrote:

KitKat wrote:

Dubbs wrote:

KitKat wrote:

I got your point, you were judging Marie using this as your religious point of that she's supposedly not following church council. When you do it also. Hypocrite.

The matter of times one does something doesn't really matter Kitkat, that you say "I only do it twice a month" as your justification, but then condemn Marie, says alot about your mindset. :laugh:
Rich! You're talking about MY mindset.

BTW, my Bishop has admonished me about working in shorts/tank top. He's told me I shouldn't be doing it. If that's true, then it applies to Marie too.

As I've said, my Bishop lives two houses over, and he can see into my back yard.

I'd build a six foot fence in that case. Not his business what you do in your yard. Just what is he doing staring over into your backyard anyway?:woohoo:

Sounds like a bit of a busy-body IMPO.

Heaven forbid you ever put in a swimming pool...if you don't already have one.

Can you imagine what he'd have to say about you actually wearing a...gasp...swimsuit in your own damned backyard?:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P

LOL.. I know! I do have a kiddie pool back there in the summer, maybe about 3 feet or so deep. And I get in there (shorts/tank) with the grandkiddies. Bishop hasn't mentioned that yet.

Give him time...if the sight of you in dry shorts and tank gave him conniptions...just think about what the sight of you in wet shorts and tank will do.:woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo: :P
LOL.. I'll let you know when that happens.:)

=====