This thread discusses the Content article: McCain at NAACP pledges more education options

I am sick of hearing about vouchers. I do not believe vouchers is the solution that so many seem to see them as. I think if they could get rid of the teachers union, allow schools to fire bad teachers easily, and let students choose which public school they want to attend (rather than have it chosen for you based on where you live) things would start to improve.

Maybe McCain won't fix the education mess but I hear Cindy is going to put the federal deficit on her Visa.
